Mr. TIMOTHY,

When the terrors of the Stamp-Act had ſtartled many a good and prudent citizen, and when intereſt plainly led many a man into opinions which his heart muſt have condemned; I am ſorry to find the poor Printers attacked, in order to pay a compliment; of which I ſhall only ſay, that wordly prudence ſhews itſelf different ways: However, as I do not think you deſerve that cenſure which you unfortunately labour under; and as I am convinced, you will, upon all occaſions, ſhew yourſelf as much a Lover of Liberty as another, I do not doubt, that you will republiſh the Letter of Ruſticus, which cannot be too often read, before the determination of the next Election.

Yours, CANDOUR.

WHEN ſo many writers in the neighbouring provinces daily appear in behalf of Liberty and of their country, 'tis ſurpriſing that even ſo important an event as a General Election, at this critical conjuncture, ſhould not have induced ſome perſon of ability in this place to offer his opinion and advice to his countrymen. Had any of us a cauſe to be tried at the next court, by the determination of which, one half of our eſtates might be loſt, how arduous ſhould we be to enquire into the characters of the perſons who were to decide it? how induſtrious to procure the ableſt council? and yet, when we are to chooſe, perhaps for the laſt time, perſons who are for us, and in our head, to defend and protect not a part, nor even the whole of our property, but our LIBERTY, and that of our poſterity, now to be irretrivably loſt or ſecured for ever; how aſſy, how languid, do we appear! or if we do make any efforts, they are rather to procure private or local, than the public advantage. Theſe conſiderations have prevailed on me to publiſh this paper. Happy ſhall I think myſelf, ſhould it in anywiſe be uſeful; content ſhould it ſink into that oblivion, which my diſtance from town, and conſequent want of information, may make it merit.—Arguments to prove the importance of the preſent crilis would be impertinent—Who is ignorant that acts of parliament, taking away our beſt and deareſt privileges of Trial by Juries, of being taxed by our own conſent only, have been paſſed lately, and do now exiſt? That a legal and conſtitutional application of one colony to the reſt, to join her in the moſt dutiful and loyal petitions to their Sovereign for redreſs, has been treated by miniſtry, as an act almoſt treaſonable? That becauſe the ſucceeding aſſembly could not be ſo intimidated as to cenſure and annul this ſtep of their predeceſſors, they have been diſſolved, with marks of the higheſt diſpleaſure, nay, the colony threatened with a deprivation of any future repreſentation in aſſembly; and circular letters ſent to all their Governors, ſo to wheedle or frighten their ſeveral aſſemblies, as to prevent their joining in the petition? Does any man want to be told that every Britiſh ſubject has a right to petition his King whenever he thinks himſelf aggrieved? or that a denial of that very privilege, was one of the great offences againſt the conſtitution, that coſt JAMES II. his crown? Have not the News-Papers informed us, that numbers of men of war are drawing together from all parts to Boſton? And are not the ſoldiers drawn out of the frontier poſts, the defence of which was the pretence for keeping them in America, to the ſea coaſt, where 'tis impoſſible any enemy can do us harm? and can we be at any loſs to gueſs the intention of theſe motions? or for what ſervice theſe troops and ſhips are intended? Can it be neceſſary to add to theſe, the very extraordinary ſteps taken in London, ſoldiers drawn out on every occaſion to over-awe the people; thanks given them in the publiſh News-Papers for murdering his Majeſty's ſubjects; nay, his ſacred name proſtituted on the melancholy occaſion; the Star-chamber proceedings againſt Printers and Publiſhers of Papers, that happened to be diſliked by adminiſtration; the new doctrine that we are required to acknowledge, however extraordinary to common ſenſe, that beſides the allegiance we owe to our Sovereign, another is due to our fellow ſubjects in Britain; ſo that if, of two brothers born in England, one ſtays there, and the other comes to America, the latter becomes ipſo facto the ſlave and property of the former? An eſtate of ancient inheritance, without even a ſhadow of form, or pretence of juſtice, taken from a nobleman of the higheſt rank, and given to a relation of a court favourite, becauſe the former dared to oppoſe the election of the latter. Theſe circumſtances alarming as they appear, are not all. To our ſhame be it ſaid, that while every other part of America is united as one man, to ſave their country, we have ſuffered ourſelves to be diſunited, and run into a ſtate of confuſion, if not of anarchy, all probably to ſerve the purpoſes of a few deſigning, perhaps neceſſitous men, who ſeek for protection from their creditors in the public confuſion, and who ſcruple not "to ſet the province in a flame, for the convenience of roaſting their eggs in the aſhes." All theſe things are as clear as the light of the ſun at noon day. How much farther our Taſk-Maſters may chooſe to extend the hand of power 'tis hard to gueſs. The nation owes, we ſee, a Hundred and Forty Millions. Whether, as the laſt ſtake, we and our children, as well as our lands and effects, may be ſold to the beſt bidders, to reduce a ſmall part of that enormous ſum, time only can ſhew: 'tis however certain, that none will bear a heavy burthen long, when he has an acknowledged right to lay it on the ſhoulders of another; and it is equally certain, that they who have a right to take from others any one privilege, or one penny of money, without their conſent, may take the whole whenever they pleaſe. Perhaps it may be ſaid, that when things are in ſuch a ſituation, all oppoſition is vain, eſpecially when the great city of London ſubmits to be dragooned, and to have their beſt citizens oppreſſed by the hardeſt and moſt arbitrary methods of proceeding in the courts of law, for preſuming to publiſh their opinions of Miniſterial Management.—However, my dear countrymen, let us not deſpair, but rather double our diligence; we have a good and gracious King, and there is a new parliament: God be praiſed, the houſe that laid theſe burthens on us is at an end; their power is over, and we may hope better things from their ſucceſſors. We have alſo many great and able men at Home, who will exert their abilities in ſupport of the conſtitution and dependance of the liberties of the mother country and the colonies, that the former muſt fall with the latter: Let us do our part; let us chooſe men of abilities and reſolution faithfully to aſſert our rights; to ſet them in the cleareſt light; to find means to bring our diſtreſſes to the ear of our Sovereign; to repreſent them truly to him, cleared from all miniſterial miſrepreſentation; and thereby convince him that his American ſubjects no leſs deſerve his Royal Favour and Protection, than any others whatſoever. When this is done, we have no reaſon to ſuppoſe, that ſo gracious, ſo juſt a King, will ſacrifice one quarter part of his ſubjects to humour the reſt; he will rather aſſiſt us in our applications to the other branches of the legiſlature, and we may yet be happy.

I hope it will not be thought preſumption, if I give a few hints to my fellow electors, in their choice of repreſentatives.

Let each elector before he gives his ballot, ſuppoſe that his ALL is to be left to arbitration, upon the points already mentioned; let him lay his hand upon his heart, and aſk himſelf, are the men whoſe names are written in this ballot, the very perſons I ſhould have choſen as arbitrators in ſuch a caſe? if ſo, he cannot err; but if not, ſurely he will of courſe, think of better men for his choice. The ſeveral weighty matters that have come before the two laſt houſes of aſſembly, and the behaviour of each member upon thoſe ſeveral occaſions, of which each of you had a right to be informed by your repreſentatives, will be a moſt certain guide in your enſuing choice. Thoſe gentlemen who have ſupported your rights with fortitude and ability, when attacked openly or inſidiouſly, by your late Governor, and by the acts of parliament ſo often mentioned, will doubtleſs be the objects of your choice. You have a right to their ſervice; ſhould any of them decline it ever ſo earneſtly, they ſhould be compelled, though there be no written law to do this; yet if they are really the men you now want, you will find ſuch a law imprinted in their breaſts, they cannot deſpair of their country, they dare not deſert her in diſtreſs; on your part do every thing to make their ſervice as little burthenſome as poſſible; ſtrengthen their hands with ſtrong, ample, and unanimous inſtructions, in relation to the grand points which are to come before them. On the other ſide, ſhould you diſcover that members of the former houſe, had endeavoured to ſacrifice your rights and liberties to the attacks made upon them, either out of mean compliſence at one time with a haughty and oppreſſive Governor; at another with a ridiculous Judge; or to procure court favour, by ſubverting and ſurrendering that ſacred depoſit, the privileges of their conſtituents, entruſted in their hands; or to perplex and confuſe the proceedings of your true friends, when they could not otherwiſe prevent meaſures being taken for your ſervice, on matters of the higheſt importance; it muſt be needleſs ſurely to warn you againſt the choice of ſuch. However pompouſly they may found their own praiſe, or boaſt of their candour and uprightneſs; ſhould theſe men be men of ability, and knowing in the conſtitution they wiſhed to overturn, ſo that want of judgment can't be pleaded for their conduct; how wicked, how deteſtable, muſt they appear? One conſideration only can enhance their guilt, which is, ſhould they be our own Countrymen, in that caſe, their parricide added to their treachery, fill up the meaſure, and leave no adequate name for their crime; but ſure there can be no ſuch men, for the honour of America, I hope.

I muſt add a few lines to my friends and neighbours on the late diſturbances. Let me beg them to conſider this letter ſeriouſly, and tell me, whether the enemies of the colonies could wiſh any thing better to happen for carrying their meaſures into execution than the preſent diſturbances? Whether it may not be a good pretence for calling all the troops to protect the Towns and Settlements from them? Whether at this time they have any juſt reaſon to complain of the conduct of the legiſlature? Whether they have read and conſidered the law for erecting Circuit Courts, and what are their objections? Whether they do not take theſe objections, all merely from the information of a few among them? who perhaps only with to keep other Judges away, that they may, as formerly, oppreſs the people at pleaſure, as Juſtices of the Peace? Laſtly, whether thoſe gentlemen they ſeem deſirous of making members of aſſembly, are capable of defending their privileges now in diſpute? have they ſufficient knowledge of the laws and conſtitution of their country, to anſwer every objection, and to prove what we claim to be our right? Alas, other abilities are neceſſary for this, than ſuffice for making ſpeeches to us in the woods. If any of theſe gentlemen were members of Aſſembly when our liberties have been attacked, and were ſuch able patriots; how came their names never yet to be mentioned, as having diſtinguiſhed themſelves? To conclude, let me intreat you to conſider ſeriouſly the neceſſity of an entire union and harmony at this time; and I can have no doubt, that all tumult will ceaſe on your part, and there can be no more room to doubt the Governor will do his, to bury every thing that has been done in utter oblivion. RUSTICUS.

LONDON, July 9.

'Tis now said the D. of B. takes the lead in all public concerns.

'Tis said that a valuable employment lately bestowed on a friend of a certain  is saddled with an annuity for a certain city.

We hear that a bill will be brought next Sessions into parliament to improve or make more perfect the union; so that the religion, laws, customs, and manners of North and South Britain will be made exactly the same, and that then and after an equal taxation, there may be no grounds for differences, jealousies, or distinctions, between the English and Scotch, any more than between a Gloucestershire and Yorkshireman.

On Sunday night the brother of a great personage paid a visit to Mr. Wilkes in the King's Bench.

A welsh correspondent says, "I am informed that the bust and petticoat lately taken from a lawless mob, are shortly to be put up among the flags, and other trophies of victory at Guildhall."

July 9. By some late advices received from France, we are informed, that the Protestant religion daily gains great ground in that kingdom.

On Saturday fourteen gentlemen, all twins, met at a tavern in Westminster, to celebrate the marriage of a twin brother of one of the company, with the twin sister of another.

On Wednesday last the widow Harris of Hill farm in Berkshire, who is near 90, and has been blind these ten years, was married to her ploughman, a stout young fellow of 20.

We are informed, that three companies of marines are to be trained in the exercise of engineering, and the great guns on ship board, at Portsmouth and Plymouth.

A few days ago some hundred head of Scotch cattle, brought up by the English Graziers, passed over Berwick Bridge, with No. 45 marked upon their horns.

A correspondent says, "Who knows but that the thirty ships fitting out by the Genoese for the service of France, may be employed in an embarkation to invade Great-Britain, so soon as the French have subdued Corsica, which it seems is considered a preliminary step."

July 12. The city of London never had a chief Magistrate in the Privy Council, since the time of Sir William Walworth, who in the reign of Richard the Second, killed the famous Wat Tyler, then at the head of a numerous force in opposition to the government.

July 30. Three of the principal officers of the Crown are expected to resign very speedily.

It is said that if his Danish Majesty should honour Ireland with a visit, he will be accompanied by a great Monarch who is rather more interested in the prosperity of that kingdom.

As the American Wilkes cannot bear the smell of gunpowder, and faints away at a drawn sword or bayonet, it is thought that the disputes will be ended there with much less difficulty and mischief than has happened in England. But the more sanguine friends of the Bostonites say, the next advices will bring an account of an action at Boston, and another possibly at New-York.

August 2. We hear that Lord Botetourt, appointed Governor of Virginia, will speedily embark for his new Government.

We are informed that a C—b—t C—n—l was held lately on the affairs of America, and that all the members were unanimous for coercive measures.

'Tis said that the reason why a certain general officer has been deprived of his government in North America is that he did not chuse to go over to reside there.

A correspondent informs us, that a detachment of the Marines we sent last week to consult the Oracle at Hague about the measures proper to be taken with the North Americans at this critical juncture, and that they had received the following oracular answer: "You must pursue vigorous measures ——— with Moderation."

It is rumoured that two noblemen of distinction are going over to North America to enquire personally into the grievances complained of, and on other matters of consequence.

Also that Real Admiral Lord Colville will be appointed to the command of a fleet, destined beyond the Atlantic.

While some of our political writers insist, that the original Migrators to America went thither to preserve their Liberty, while others staid at home to fight for it;—the more rational conclude, that each party acted as they thought most conducive to their own Advantage.

INTELLIGENCE EXTRAORDINARY.

We hear that the C———l have been lately greatly divided on the measures proper to be pursued with respect to A———a, but that at present they are all agreed in opinion, excepting Lord C——— m; and it is further said, that an order is actually signed for two regiments to embark: Notwithstanding it has been asserted in some of the papers, that ten regiments have been ordered for North-America, we are well informed that no more than two regiments are to be sent thither, viz. 64th and 65th, commanded by the Colonels Mackay and Pomeroy.

August 4. Yesterday morning at five o'clock the Earl of Bute set out from his house in South-Audley-street, for Dover, in order to embark for France.

On Tuesday arrived in Suffolk-street, from Italy, the Princess Donna Catharina Barbarigo, niece to his holiness the Pope. Her Highness we hear, is known to, and much esteemed by, many of the English nobility and gentry, who have, in their tour through Italy, been very politely and elegantly entertained at the house of this Princess.

August 5. Yesterday a messenger arrived in town with an account that his Danish Majesty will be at Calais on Wednesday next, to embark there for Dover.

The sum Pay the Lord Chamberlain to the King of Denmark arrived in town.

The Irish House of Commons consists exactly of 300 members, and it is judged, by those who are acquainted with Ireland, and the manner how the late general election there (which ended on Saturday last) was carried on, that near one third of the present new parliament are new members.

Yesterday morning about five o'clock died at his palace at Lambeth, aged 75, the most Reverend Thomas Secker, LL. D. Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

They write from Hamburgh, that the present disputes between England and her colonies have effectually put a stop to the further emigration of foreigners to settle in North-America.

Whether the Governess of Queen Caroline has received orders to attend the landing of the King of Denmark in England, when royal salutes and displays of all the standards upon the ramparts.

It is reported that Mr. Wilkes will shortly sue for his pardon, which is to be done by an elegant Limner, and sent to his Prussian Majesty, who intends to have it put up in his Temple of Worthies at Berlin.

It is said that orders are sent to our American Governors to be particularly attentive that no stores are clandestinely sent to any of the French islands.

August 6. Yesterday in the afternoon his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland's attendants set out for Portsmouth; and his highness's post chariot was ordered to be in readiness at ten last night, to carry him thither to embark for Italy.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland has fixed his return (accidents excepted) for the middle of October next at farthest.

The King of Denmark has not yet been in Paris, as mentioned in the papers this week, but his Majesty proposes to go thither from hence: to proceed through the South of France, to make the tour of Italy, and return by the way of Vienna, Berlin, &c. home.

Lord Chatham recovers so surprizingly in his health, strength, and spirits, that great expectations are formed from his Lordship's being able (as supposed) to give a constant attendance (which his almost continual indisposition has prevented since his advancement to a coronet) in the House of Peers, the ensuing sessions.

We hear that Count Malke, his Danish Majesty's Prime Minister, and who attends him on his journey, has assured the Earl of Chatham in a letter from Holland, of his Majesty's high opinion of his Lordship's public character, and of his intention to do him the honour of paying him a particular visit.

It is said, that a lately created Earl, who when a Commoner was a popular Digny of the times, is writing a history of his administration, which will contain a vindication of the principles upon which he accepted his honours and emoluments.

It is whispered, that a ship lately arrived from France has brought over a present of plate, worth 5,000 guineas, for a nobleman no way remarkable for his popularity.

August 8. This morning early Mr. Wilkes set out in a post chariot from the King's Bench Prison, accompanied by the Marshal of the King's Bench, and two other gentlemen, for Guildford, in order to be present at the trial of the Soldiers for the murder of Mr. Allen, junior.

It is expected that Mr. Wilkes will dine this day at his Grace the Duke of Newcastle's at Claremont in Surry, in his way to Guildford, an elegant entertainment being prepared for that purpose.

According to letters from Poland, the utmost tumult and disorder reign through the whole kingdom; and that it is even dangerous for any person to recommend peace and tranquility.

It is said that his Danish Majesty has signified his being satisfied to be received in his proper character of King of Denmark at the British court, but that he intends to appear every where else as Prince of Travendahl.

Some of his Majesty's coaches, it is said, are preparing to set out for Dover, to bring the King of Denmark and his retinue to Town.

It is reported that some capital houses have actually declined executing any further commissions from North-America, on account of the present troubles.

On Friday, as we are informed, the Right Hon. Lord Botetourt had an audience of his Majesty, and received his final instructions for his new Government of Virginia, for which place his Lordship intends to set out on Thursday next at farthest.

It is remarked as a very unfortunate event for a very high dignitary in the church, who is a native of North Britain, that a certain favourite N———n, his countryman, did not delay his journey to Bareges a few days longer, in which case, it is with great probability thought, that he would be appointed to fill up a grand vacancy which has happened in the church since his L——p's leaving the kingdom.

It is said that a scheme is on foot to establish a Royal Bank, in each of the three principal provinces in North America; their capitals subject to an Interest of Five per cent.

A gentleman lately arrived from France says, that they have it under consideration to suppress the Nunneries throughout that kingdom.

Who informs all persons indebted to KEITH TON & SMITH, who do not forthwith settle to his satisfaction, that they will be sued for without further notice.

BRIDGE TOWN, (Barbadoes) Aug. 6. 1768.

Extract of a Letter from Tobago, dated July 23.

"I PRESUME you have heard of the establishment of a Legislature here, which have already done much business, and have passed five acts, very wholesome and necessary, which were dispatched by Mr. Hall on tuesday last to General Melvill for his assent, viz.—An act for the good government of slaves:—An act to prevent the improper vending of spirituous liquors:—An act to make slaves, mules, and boiling-house utensils real estate:—An act for establishing a Register-Office in this island:—And an act for establishing the rate of interest eight per cent. and the damages to be recovered on protested bills ten per cent.

The Gentlemen of the Council are,

The honourable Robert Stewart, Esq; President, the honourable Roderick Gwynne, William Young, Richard Ottley, John Graham, William Lindow, Benjamin Browne, Archibald Kennedy, Peter Campbell, John Leith, James Duncan, and William Hall, Esquires.

The Gentlemen of the Assembly are,

James Orr, Esq; for the town of Plymouth, in Courland-Bay.

James Simpson, (Speaker) and Charles Irvine, Esqrs. for the parish of St. David, formerly Courland division.

William Sloane and William Gardiner, Esqrs. for the parish of St. Patrick, formerly Sandy-Point division.

Hugh Russel and John Hamilton, Esqrs. for the parish of St. Andrew, formerly Great Rockley Bay division.

Walter Carew and Michael Croker, Esqrs. for the parish of St. George, formerly Barbadoes Bay division.

Henry Pither and Alexander Lyon, Esqrs. for the parish of St. Mary, formerly Grand River division.

Duncan Campbell, Esq; for the parish of St. Paul, formerly Queen's Bay division. And William Kenrick, Esq; for the parish of St. John, formerly North-East division.

George Gibb, Esq; Clerk of the Council.

James Irvine, Esq; Clerk of the Assembly.

"Some of the gentlemen settlers from Barbados, (though non-residents here) would, it seems, have been named of the council, had not the General been obliged to nominate all such gentlemen who were before of the general council of the ceded islands, to this separate council. This reduced the number so much, that to have nominated more non-residents, would have been the same as to have had no council at all. He therefore very prudently appointed such gentlemen as were immediate settlers of Tobago, and whom he knew would attend their duty."

Salem, August 23. By Capt. Samuel Grant, who arrived here last Lord's day, from Martinico, in 28 days, are come to hand, copies of an arret of the French King's council of state of April 1, 1768; and an ordonance of the King, dated the 9th of July last, permitting foreign vessels to import timber of all kinds, dying woods, live stock of all kinds, green or tanned hides, furs, pitch and tar, rice, Indian corn, beans, peafe, coffee, sugar, cotton and cocoa, into any harbour or road of the island of St. Lucia.

Boston, August 29. A letter from Halifax mentions that the troops from Louisbourg, St. John's, and the other out-posts, were arrived there, and with those which were there before, lay in readiness to embark, and that it was currently reported they were destined for this place.

THOMAS BUCKLE.

CHARLES-TOWN, October

A very numerous meeting of MECHANICKS and other Inhabitants of Charles-Town, at Liberty-Point, on Saturday last the 1st instant, to consult each other upon the choice of proper persons to represent them, at this important conjuncture, in the ensuing Assembly, the following gentlemen's names were put up, viz.

For St. Philip's parish.		For St. Michael's.
Christopher Gadsden	Esqrs.	Benj. Dart	Esqrs.
Thomas Smith, jun.		Tho. Smith, of B.S.
Hopkin Price		Thomas Savage
Henry Laurens		Mess. J. Ward, Merch.
Charles Pinckney		John Lloyd,

when a great majority appeared in favour of the three first on each list.——This matter being settled, without the least animosity or irregularity, the company partook of a plain and hearty entertainment, that had been provided by some upon whom this assembly will reflect lasting honour.——About 5 o'clock, they all removed to a most noble LIVE-OAK Tree, in Mr. Mazyck's pasture, which they formally dedicated to LIBERTY, where many loyal, patriotic, and constitutional toasts were drank, beginning with the glorious NINETY-TWO Anti-Rescinders of Massachusetts-Bay, and ending with, Unanimity among the Members of our ensuing Assembly not to rescind from the said resolutions, each succeeded by three huzzas.——In the evening, the tree was decorated with 45 lights, and 45 fky-rockets were fired.——About 8 o'clock, the whole company, preceded by 45 of their number, carrying as many lights, marched in regular procession to town, down King-street and Broad-street, to Mr. Robert Dillon's tavern; where the 45 lights being placed upon the table, with 45 bowls of punch, 45 bottles of wine, and 92 glasses, they spent a few hours in a new round of toasts, among which, scarce a celebrated Patriot of Britain or America was omitted; and preserving the same good order and regularity as had been observed throughout the day, at 10 they retired.

Since the above meeting, notwithstanding the general suspicion that before prevailed, great diligence is used in canvassing, and interest making, by the friends of the different candidates, as well by others as by the Mechanicks.—particularly in favour of Mr. Price, Mr. Laurens, Mr. Pinckney, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Savage, and Mr. Ward.

Extract of a letter from Mecklenburg, 80 miles above Camden, and 40 below Salisbury, dated September 16, 1768.

"——— Governor Tryon has been here in person, to command the Militia intended against the Orange-County Regulators; but as the people had been informed of the intended expedition, there were not a thousand men under arms, altho' at other times they usually mustered 17 companies, or about 1900 men. When the review was over, the Governor produced an oath to be administered to all the men, the purport of which was, that "they would "to the utmost of their power, support and defend "all the laws of the province, that were not re-"pugnant to the laws of Great-Britain." This occasioned a great murmuring amongst the men, and Capt. James Hannah told his Excellency, that for his own part, he must decline taking the oath, as he knew, that since the Stamp-Act, other acts, of as evil tendency, were daily making; that he was ready to support every good law, but no consideration should prevail on him to distress his country; and that his commission being, at present, rendered very disagreeable to him, it was at his Excellency's service, and he accordingly delivered it up. The men were ordered to remain on the field all night, under a fine of Five pounds proclamation money; but as few of them took the oath, the rest retired, every one to his own home, unanimously determined not to fight against their countrymen, especially to enforce an oppressive act: So that the Governor set off for Salisbury attended by only a small number of Militia Officers, as Volunteers: 'tis imagined, the Militia in Dobbs County will do the same.———"

Extract of a letter from London, dated August 1, 1768.

"——— Administration (both in and out) seems ashamed of what they did in the repeal of the stamp-duty, and are now determined to have obedience paid to all acts of parliament respecting America: For this end they propose to begin at Boston, where they say lies the nest from which all the evils have sprung. 'Tis said six regiments will be kept there, besides a number of men of war.——"

The Sloop Phœnix, John Benson master, of and for New-York, from the Musquito-Shore, is put into North-Edisto Inlet.

"Last Monday at 8 o'clock in the evening died, "(greatly lamented by all who knew her) after a "lingering illness, which she bore with great resig-"nation, Mrs. Elizabeth Elliott (relict of the late "Barnard Elliott, Esq.) aged 51 years and 7 "months."
